Course Orientation Guide

Welcome to Your AFMCP Course!

Log in to your IFM account > My Education > My Courses > AFMCP.

Locate your AFMCP course and select the “Start” button to access Course Content.

The screenshot displays the user interface of The Institute for Functional Medicine. At the top left is the IFM logo. The top right contains navigation icons for search, email, user profile, and a menu. A blue header bar features a back arrow and the text "AFMCP (APPLYING FUNCTIONAL MEDICINE IN CLINICAL PRACTICE)". Below this, a breadcrumb trail shows "My Courses" followed by "AFMCP (Applying Functional Medicine in Clinical Practice)". A "Date Enrolled" dropdown menu is visible on the right. The main content area lists the "AFMCP" course with a thumbnail image, a progress bar, and the text "Curriculum 39 Available CME/CE Credits". A red arrow points to a "Start" button with a play icon, which is highlighted by a red rectangular box. Below the course list, the text "Applying Functional Medicine in Clinical Practice (AFMCP)" is displayed.

Stay on track with the Milestone Calendar

- See suggested target completion dates for each chapter to help you complete the course on time.
- A valuable benefit to finishing by the posted completion deadline date: This is required to receive downloadable course media after the program ends (downloadable presentation audio and video files that you can keep).
- Select the “Follow Calendar” button to have the dates added to your personal calendar.
- There is an additional option at the bottom to download the milestone calendar.

Milestone & Course Calendar

This milestone calendar is designed to help you stay on track throughout the course. By following these recommended checkpoints, you can self-pace your learning and ensure completion by the end of your cohort.

AFMCP Clinical Community Forum

- Private IFM forum hosted on Mighty Networks platform (no ads)
- Two ways to initially access the forum: From the Quick Link in the Attendee Portal and from the main Course Content page
- Participation is strongly encouraged! Valuable ongoing course information is posted regularly.
- Multiple “guest” educator moderators will visit throughout the AFMCP program. These are currently practicing and highly experienced functional medicine practitioners who will visit the forum to answer your clinical questions and provide support.
- Clinical applications tasks prompts embedded throughout your course will direct you to the forum. For those who signed up for CME credits, each of these individual clinical application reflections will also provide 15 minutes or .25 of CME credit. These clinical application tasks and reflections both reinforce learning and enable engagement with your clinical peers.

Welcome to the AFMCP Forum

This quick reference guide will show you how to navigate the Forum so you can make the most of your learning experience. There are two ways to get to the Forum:

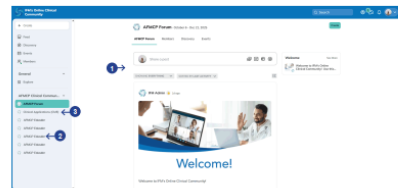

- Access the Forum using the invitation link sent via email. OR
- Access the Forum through the course. (Instructions to access the course)

A Quick Walk-Through Video

Watch this short video to learn how to create or update your profile, share a post, send direct messages, etc. Please note that Educator feeds and Clinical Applications are specific to the AFMCP course and are not shown in this video.

Forum Structure

Discussions will take place on three main areas of the Forum: Main Feed (1), Educator Feed (2), and Clinical Applications (3) (CME).

- 1 Main Feed: This area is used for important course announcements, reminders, and updates. To create a post, start typing in the open text box above the feed. You can add images and emoji reactions to personalize your messages.
- 2 Educator Feeds: Course educators will provide live moderation during select weeks of the program. Toward the bottom left of your screen, you will see dedicated feeds with each educator's name. To open a feed, click on their name. Educators will only provide moderation during the dates listed on their feed.
- 3 Clinical Applications: Clinical Application tasks are designed to strengthen your use of functional medicine tools in practice and reflect on your experiences. At the end of each chapter, you will be prompted to engage with the chapter-related tasks.

*Please Note: All AFMCP learners are encouraged to participate and apply their new skills. Participation in Clinical Applications is only eligible for CME credit for those who have purchased the CME add-on during registration.

Instructions on navigating the Clinical Applications area are available on the next page.

Inside Your Course: Viewing videos

- Once you start playing a video, you will be able to adjust the playback speed and view Closed Captioning (US English) in the lower right corner.
- You can open or collapse the left menu panel by clicking on the three lines at the top adjacent to the panel.
- Course content can be viewed on mobile devices, but we strongly recommend using a laptop or desktop computer for optimal course functioning and experience.

Inside Your Course: Course Progression

- All chapters and content must initially be completed in order. Once complete, you can go back and review in any order you wish.
- Completion of ALL videos is required to progress.
- In order to progress, each video must play FULLY to the end; only then will the button below the video be activated and read “CONTINUE.”

Inside Your Course: Knowledge Checks

- To reinforce learning, there will be periodic “Check Your Knowledge” sections throughout the course.
- Unlimited answer attempts can be made, but questions must be answered correctly to progress.
- Currently there is no comprehensive final exam at the conclusion of the course, however, the course survey that follows Chapter 6 must be submitted for course completion.

Check Your Knowledge:

① Requires a correct answer to continue

Which statements from a patient's history indicate inherited antecedents? Select all that apply.

- ☐ "I was never breast fed as a baby."
- ☐ "Both my grandmother and my mother have Alzheimer's disease."
- ☐ "My mom worked at a plastics manufacturing plant when she was pregnant."
- ☐ "During childhood, my family always ate ultra-processed foods."

AFMCP Clinical Community Forum: Clinical Applications

Clinical Applications

To get the most out of your learning, apply what you have learned into your practice.

- The next time you are seeing patients, take time to gather yourself.
- Identify a patient and use the Medical Symptoms Questionnaire (MSQ) and foundational "gather" questions.
- Populate a timeline and identify clinical findings and ATMs.
- Reflect on the experience and share it in the Online Clinical Community Forum (0.25 CME).

1. Clinical Applications tasks are embedded throughout your course.

2. Use the dedicated Forum discussion board to share your reflections and experiences. For those who signed up for CME credits, each reflection will also provide 15 minutes or .25 CME credit.

Inside Your Course: Completing a Section

IMPORTANT!

When a section is completed, you MUST click on the button that says COMPLETE SECTION for it to be recorded on your course. If you do not click this button, the section will not be counted towards your course progression.
